The Annual Publication of the Associated Students of
Mount Saint Mary's College,
Los Angeles 49, California

Dedication

"We, the graduating class of nineteen hundred fifty-three, dedicate this annual to the spirit of the Mount."

A dedication is intended for the object of one's highest esteem and affection. To choose among understanding parents, patient teachers, and close friends, all of whom have won our esteem and affection, is far too difficult a task. So we turn instead to an abstract factor, intangible but all-encompassing: the spirit of Mount Saint Mary's, the breath of college life.

We knew it in the chapel, when row on row of girls gowned just as we were, joined in prayer that the world might become as Christian a community as we have formed here. We knew it in the classroom, where minds searching for the same truth as we, met and grappled with ideas seemingly unrelated, yet all integrated in the theology and philosophy of God's true Church. We found it in the lounge and the patio, at the pool and on the sun deck, when quiet conversation formed a friendship known only where beliefs and ideals, even in fun, are alike.

In saluting this spirit, born of unity, we do not neglect our parents, nor our teachers, nor our friends. For it is they who have helped us to create it. And while we knelt together in prayer, drew wisdom from the world's great books, or hurried to vote in a student election, we were all the while implicitly thanking them. We are proud and grateful for the beauty of the spirit that greeted us here, bound us together, and will follow and sustain us when college days are ended.

On January 12, 1953, His Eminence James Francis Cardinal McIntyre was elevated to the Sacred College of Cardinals by His Holiness, Pope Pius XII. The students of Los Angeles felt especial joy at this honor to our beloved Archbishop, who has done so much for the cause of Catholic education. The students of Mount St. Mary's College offer sincere congratulations to His Eminence the Cardinal, with the promise of earnest prayers for success in his high and sacred office.

MOUNT ST. MARY'S COLLEGE

"THE HAND THAT ROCKS THE CRADLE RULES THE WORLD"

This is an old and true expression. Thus if the hand that rocks the cradle is well trained in the basic principles of right living under God, and cultured in the abiding conventions of Christian civilization, we may expect the world of the future to retain the blessings that have been so bountiful upon our United States.

As the students of Mount St. Mary's College will be rocking the cradle of future generations and imparting to them the love of God and His Blessed Mother, we may be assured that their contribution to our Country will be of the greatest value.

James Francis Card. McIntyre

After four years of saying Holy Mass, dropping "plumpendiculars," and opening his mysterious left top desk drawer to delighted students, Reverend James O'Reilly has become a spiritual, academic, and very popular "father" to Mount Saint Mary's. The senior class, who arrived with our chaplain as freshmen, here pay tribute to his friendly charm, his wise and patient counsel, and his practice, day by day, of the principles of Christian morality.

OFFICE OF THE CHAPLAIN

Dear Graduates,

The sunlight breaking through the mists of the morning, bringing into view the hillsides and gardens, the streets and homesteads of the city below, ravishes the eye and makes the heart stand tiptoe with delight. The pleasure of beholding this sight was often yours at Mount St. Mary's in the years now happily ending. Of a deeper kind and a greater intensity is the experience of the scholar who sees the complexities of nature and the confusion of human affairs resolved into order and harmony under the penetrating light of reasoned principles. This too, we feel, was given to you to behold more than once from the vantage point of the arts and sciences. But far transcending both of these in its power to fill the soul, is the vision unfolded as the light of faith rises upon the mystery of human destiny, lays bare the City of God, and illumines pathways that reach from earth to heaven. This above all, we dare hope, was not denied you.

Years may pass before you open this book again, and turning through these pages, awaken the memory of days that are already slipping into the shadows. Perhaps your lot may then be cast in surroundings less beautiful. The cares and the confusion of life may long since have obscured the clear vision of the scholar, and lessened your interest in the quest for knowledge. Yet still may the light of your faith shine more brightly, and the fire of your love for God burn ever more fervently. God grant that you may always return to these pages in the happy consciousness that you have been true to the promise of this day.

This is the earnest prayer of your teachers and fellow-students and of one who begs to remain

Yours devotedly in Christ,
Father O'Reilly

Dear Seniors,

Four years at the Mount have come to an end for you. During these years God has offered you many special gifts: gifts of grace for your supernatural life, gifts of guidance and enrichment for your intellect, gifts of peace and strength for your will.

Through your sincerity in living up to the Mount's "school spirit" you have truly taken advantage of many of these gifts. May the holy and happy things which have been given you during these years take deep root and flourish in you during all the years to come. And may you carry the spirit of the Mount, the spirit of Christ's peace and faithfulness, into all the paths that the future may open up for you.

We hope, too, that in the years to come you will keep close to your college in order that you may continue to receive good things from her, and also that you may help to pass on to the new generations the true spirit of Mount St. Mary's.

The Senior Class

"To Mount Saint Mary's we will sing a song,
A song of loyalty. . . ."

The Seniors have sung their loyal song for four years; not just aloud at assemblies, but in the chapel, in classes, and through every extra-curricular activity that spread the Mount's fame "from the hills, to the seas, to the islands beyond." Green Week was its hilarious best under their authority. Senior privileges were respected; through them the lower classmen learned loyalty to Mount traditions. True to high college standards, Seniors studied long hours to achieve the academic standing needed for graduation. Class spirit was the deeper joy that lay behind the fun of Senior parties; at a barbecue, watching television, or playing charades. This spirit was responsible, too, for the happy successes of Night at the Mount and the Senior Farewell Dance, Mai Poina Hula.

Now, as the Class of '53 bestows its privileges to the Juniors, the reminder of duty lies in their watchful eyes, for each Senior class is the special guardian of loyalty and tradition. Their devotion at the annual Retreat and Recollection Day is just another reminder that the Seniors of 1953 will always pray that God's blessings may come even more abundantly . . .

The Junior Class

Juniors, conscious of new dignity as upper division students, opened the fall semester by solemnly officiating as judges at Green Week's beauty contest. In October, they designed bids and decorations for the Blue Crystal Ball. La Verne Boyer's orchestra presided over the Mount Ballroom, festively colored in silver and iced-blue.

A spirit of cooperation blended with ingenuity raised Junior funds for the prom. A caroling party highlighted Christmas vacation, and a spaghetti dinner enlivened the beginning of the spring semester. February brought class rings; May, the Junior-Senior Prom, then graduation, ivy chain, elections, and excited plans for the year ahead.

Maureen Fox explains an ethics assignment to Jean Call, Pat Carroll, Shirley Burke (standing), and Rosemary Czuleger.

Maria Munoz, Bernie Victorino, Helen McEachen, Marilyn Morris, Inez Leuteritz, and Carmen Munoz stop for a minute's rest in the grotto.

Day hops Joella Allen, Kathleen Higgins, and Anna Macchio; and boarders Ella Jo Bunyard, Georga Grupe, and Peggy Holtsnider gather in Peggyann Campbell's (extreme foreground) room to discuss weekend plans.

Claudette Drennan and Milania Austin explain the Newman Club panel to Joanne Schott, Justine Weiher (standing), Joanne Vosika, and Margaret Wick.

Kibitzing a card game at St. Vincent's College of Nursing are (standing) Maggie McGraw, Jo Ann Green, Juanita Wagner, June Swithen, Pat Ford, Gloria Arias, and Jane Brander; while (seated) Ruth Lackey, Pat Lee, Jeannette Slattery, Ruth Kido, and Rosemary Davidson continue to play.

The Sophomore Class

On the way to a class meeting, Nancy Galt, vice-president; Carla Carlucci, secretary; Georgia Maloney, president; Rosemary Heffron, social chairman; and Joan Gocke, treasurer, stop for a moment in the arcade.

The Sophomores are often called the forgotten class, but any sophomore can tell you that her class is much too busy to be forgotten. From registration day in the fall until summer vacation, sophomores are a part of every project, every club, and every plan that fills the college year.

They help to haze the freshmen during Green Week, and then, before anyone else even has her program straightened out, sophomores give the first get-acquainted dance. That is the way they set the pace for the whole year, and one activity follows another.

In the spring when the other classes can relax a little, tension increases for the sophomores because the National Sophomore Achievement Tests are just ahead, and effort is heightened to keep college standing high.

Their most important project of the year is the sophomore-sponsored formal dance. This year, the Valentine Ball was a successful and delightful departure from the traditional Mardi Gras theme. Sophomores are not conservatives, especially with their ability to make "innovation" mean "improvement."

And so there is no forgotten class. They are a necessary class, an important class. They are the sophomores.

On their way to class, Dolores Jones, Jo-Anne Kealohanui, Betty Willinger, Betty Mae Cabral, Thelma Garcia, and Julieta Cuevas stop in St. Joseph's Hall to check the bulletin board.

Mary Joan Storm, Alicia Wick, Phyllis Kiney, Dixie Fairchild, Maureen Nally, Barbara Selna, Claire Jones, and Jill Curtis expect enchiladas for dinner.

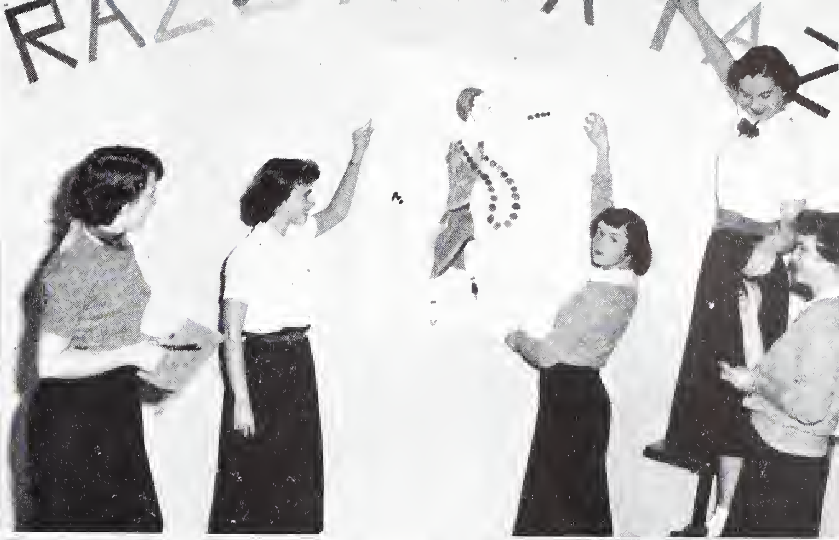
Mary Ann O'Connell, Kathleen McGlincy, Julianne Murphy, Clare Goss, Betty Atwill, Jeanne Lautier, and Lenore Gaffney and Beverly Calhoun (in the background) observe the techniques of an amateur lifeguard.

Boarders: Ann Bondan, Carol Atchison, Peggy Krier, Jude Longshore and Rosemary Condon (in car), Lu Mattson, Mary Reimann, Carla Wright, and Pat Olson get ready to leave the hill to Engel's for coffee.

Marianne Munch, Suzanne Seiler (in back), Mary Ellen Breen, Roberta Boken, Sally Snow, Eileen O'Loughlin, Helene Hopp, and Vivian Laubach check the textbook in the patio before going to Fr. Aldridge's class.

The nurses, with eyes "on the birdie" are: (Standing) Barbara Jean Williams, Barbara Schapar, Mary Ann Penty, Alice Erlinger, Dede Perez. (Seated) Eleanor Murray, Mary Jane Hoffman, Mary Vance, Lorraine Gibbons, Shirley Herman.



Decorating the social hall for the sophomore stag dance, the "Razz-a-ma-tazz," are: Kathleen Murphy, Kathleen McGlincy, Beverly Calhoun, Rosemary Heffron, and Julianne Murphy.

Kathleen McGlincy, Julianne Murphy, Beverly Calhoun, and Mary Ann O'Connell tend to last-minute touches before the "Valentine Fantasy."

The trials of Green Week first introduced the freshmen class to college life at the Mount. Quickly adjusting themselves to the new systems and classes, they enthusiastically participated in all school activities. Under the capable leadership of their officers, class members succeeded in accomplishing many things. The first glimpses of talent appeared in October when they presented the "Freshman Frolies." They then enthusiastically supported The Great World Theater, and at the Loyola Homecoming, had three freshman princesses to attend the queen. At Christmas, the boarders prepared favors and decorations, and served a delicious banquet for upperclassmen. Throughout the remaining year they worked at all activities from carrying chairs to conducting assemblies. They are newcomers no longer, and have become a real part of Mount Saint Mary's College.

Angela Rotsler, Mary Brusstar, Margaret Munnemann, Jean Mason, Dorothea Ross, Toni Suarez (on floor), and Nelly Hubert listen to Sandy Stevenson (center) as she spins one of her tales.

Practicing for the "Frosh Frolics" are Jonelle Gagel and Toni DeBellis (at the piano) and Anita Marciel, Mirian Bryant, Lucy Cohen, Phyllis Settecase, Betty McNeill, Mary Ackerman, Grace Byrnes, Carol Crawford, and Mary Beth Burns.

Watching a Loyola Homecoming rally in the circle are (standing) Frances Erpelding, Mary Ann Normanly, Carol Clark, Audria Gregg, Aggie Osterkamp, and Mary Ann Wightman; (kneeling) Nancy Van Dyke, Maureen McKernan, Mary Lou Smith, and Faith Larkin.

Marie Barry, Mary Carol Scherb, Louise Wood, Marie Biggs, Beverly Gueno, Rosemary Lucente, Georgina Leon, and Ying Kwan and Helen Osako (on floor) get first hand information on Japan from Catherine Kigami (in native costume).

Will this meeting come to order! Mary Frances Dolan, Pat Weaver, Gloria Cessford, Joan Novy, Ginger Knapp, Mary Anne Lane, Joanne Dozier, Ann Shea, Margaret Mary Swope, Jean Johnston, and Marleen Dailey hold a noon meeting in the Lounge.

Beatriz Borquez, Ernestine Barton, Beverly Foster, Marlene Dailey, Dolores Michelena, Gwen Sharp, Jean Neal, and Betty Oswald stop for a minute on their way to the noon rosary.

Bee Kenko, Gladys Block, and "B.J." Luke (in front); Mariam Kam, Irene Bovine, Joan Green, Gloryann Audia, Sharon Fitzgerald, Margaret Cain, Johanna Lum, and Edi Marquez listen to Christmas carols being piped over the loudspeaker.

Planning the Freshman parliamentary procedure assembly, outside of the Little Theater are (standing) Margaret Nester, Gretchen Von der Ahe, Margaret Anderson, Anne Doyle, and Mary Ellen Laferty; (seated) Peggy Coates, Ann Kieffer, Kay Schmitt, Pat O'Brien, and Elana Haidinger.

Brought to trial during green week are Mary Ellen Laferty, Sandy Stevenson, Angele Rotsler, Dorothea Ross, Gretchen Von der Ahe, and Val Munton.

Anne Doyle, Margaret Munnemann, Isabel Gowen, and Frances Erpelding entertain the upperclassmen at the Frosh Frolics.

Decorating for the St. Patrick's Day breakfast are (background) Molly Swope, Jean Johnston, (standing) Clare Heumphreus, Sandy Stevenson and Marygrace Brusstar.

Student Government

Rosemary Johnson
Student Body President

Student Body Officers

The Student Council is the executive branch of student government at the Mount. This group of eighteen meets weekly to plan student activities. Through an amendment voted this year the council now includes a representative from the resident teachers' organization, the Women's Recreational Association, and the Department of Nursing. The first student activity of the year was the annual Big-Little Sister beach party at Playa del Rey. October found all students united for the outdoor presentation of Calderon's Great World Theatre with a cast of over three hundred.

In December students built and entered a float in Loyola University's homecoming parade. Lent brought the high point of the students' spiritual year with the annual retreat directed by Father William Barry. After Easter came a rush of activities and then spirited campaigning and election of student body officers. The installation of new officers on Mary's Day marked the end of a year of efficient organization, stimulating parliamentary skirmishes, and meetings full of the humor and enthusiasm characteristic of student life at Mount Saint Mary's.

Ann Scott
Student Body Vice-President

Maureen Fox
Student Body Secretary

Kathleen Higgins
Student Body Treasurer

The Nursing Council is composed of the officers of the department of nursing students: June Swithen, sec'y-treas.; Rosemary Davidson, apostolic chairman; Jane Brander, pres.; Maggie McGraw, vice-pres.; Kathleen Ford, social chairman; and Lorraine Gibbons, soph. representative.

Sodality

Gloria Will, Prefect

Prefect Gloria Will addresses a meeting of the Sodality Council, whose members are: (first row) Joella Allen, Mary Holland, Carla Carlucci, Gloria Day, Shirley Burke; (second row) Eileen O'Laughlin, Eunice Smuske, Joanne Vosika, Margaret Tripp, and Robin Boldenweck.

Our Lady's Sodality began the year with the consecration of all Sodalists to the Immaculate Heart of Mary. Projects included the Christmas toy drive with SWES and the Christmas book sale. Innovations in the campus bookroom were liturgical and religious greeting cards and bookmarks. Bishop McGucken paid his annual visit to the Mount in December to celebrate the feast of the Immaculate Conception and presided over Vespers, assisted by Father Cremins.

Peace was constantly in mind with Korean Peace Day, perpetual rosary, and Holy Hour once a month. Mary Krug Erlandson and Patricia Cromie led a discussion on the lay apostolate, moderated by Mount chaplain, Father O'Reilly. Reverend William J. Barry opened Lent with retreat beginning on Ash Wednesday, and during Lent Sodalists said stations.

About forty engaged students and their fiances took part in the Mount's third annual Marriage Conference in April. Other important events were Christopher Career Week, reception of new sodalists, and Mary's Day with Mass and breakfast for Sodalists and their mothers, May procession, rosary, and the crowning of Our Lady. The energy and devotion of the prefect and the moderator combined with the active support of capable committees, chairmen, and class representatives made the Sodality year important to spiritual growth, Members of the apostolic committee sew on altar cloths. They are (first row) Ann D'Alesio, Barbara Dobrott, Mary Frances Ross, Gloria Cessford, (second row) Rosemary Lucente, Carla Carlucci, chairman, Georgia Maloney, Joan Novy, (third row) Rosalie Klein, and Molly Swope.

The publicity committee admires the Sodality bulletin board in St. Joseph's Hall. Standing are Noreen Higgins, Jean Johnston, Mary Frances Dolan, Louise Wood, Elaine Pfiffner, and Joan Novy; kneeling are Betty Oswald, Eunice Smuske, Rosalie Klein, and Ann D'Alesio.

The Boarder Association

This year the residence hall was "home" to approximately one hundred and fifty boarders, who claim the best opportunity to really know and love the Mount. Freshmen or seniors, they were all equally proud of their self-decorated room, the beautiful parlor, and the bright dining room. The new public address system added a spark of excitement and also saved many steps for those on phone duty.

Boarders enjoyed their traditional activities: the last-minute parties in different rooms, afternoon jaunts to Westwood, the Christmas Banquet and caroling party, and the boarder dance. This year they united to give a melodious welcome to Cardinal McIntyre on his first visit to the campus after his elevation to the college of cardinals. More of the serious side of boarder life was seen in the good number of boarders at the daily Missa Recitata and compline, in the mutual respect for one another, and in the joy that comes from praying, living, and working together as one.

Boarder Council members Cho Robe, Pat Bollig, Eileen Hainley, Carol Ramaker, Isabel Gowen, Jan Calderon, Doris Higgins, Elisa Luna, and (on the floor) Mary Ann Ramberg and Elise Kerckhoff plan a fund raising campaign for a television set.

W.R.A. officers, Anne Frances Russell, chairman of sports; Joella Allen, treasurer; Elise Kerckhoff, publicity co-chairman; Rosemary Czuleger, chairman of tennis; Joyce Mazzarelli, president; and Anna Macchio, publicity co-chairman, watch the progress on the new P.E. office.

Women's Recreational Association

At a swimming party to welcome new members, the WRA explained its two-fold aim: to provide active sports enjoyment for all students, and to represent Mount Saint Mary's in interschool games and playdays. In November about thirty couples took a hay ride, and the following month students journeyed to Big Pines for the annual snow trip. The basketball team played UCLA and LACC and the volleyball team went undefeated. Club members enlivened a student body meeting in early Spring with a folk dance exhibition. WRA members saw Palm Springs in February and in March took another trip to the mountains. A field day and a beach party were May projects, and the theme "Water Colors" made the annual swim show a particularly beautiful one.

Other activities were a Mass and breakfast for the club as a whole, meetings of the WRA board, and the awarding of jackets for girls active in sports and other WRA activities.

Drama

In the fall of 1952, the Mount presented Calderon de la Barca's The Great World Theater, a drama of the life of man played before the all-knowing God. The play, performed every year by the entire town of Einsiedeln, Switzerland, was seen there in 1950 by Harald Dyrenforth, Mount drama director. With Sisters Julie and Gretchen of Rosary College, Mr. Dyrenforth made the first English translation of the play. The Mount presented its American premiere in November, with the entire student body united in publicizing, costuming, and staging the production. Mount students also handled feminine leads and comprised the singing and dancing choruses, as well as the orchestra, for significant background music.

Among prominent spectators were His Eminence James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, and many critics and journalists of the Los Angeles press. The play enjoyed great success, culturally and financially; but most important, it was an inspiring religious drama, thoroughly human and thoroughly Catholic.

William Haggeman cringes as he is led away by Death, portrayed by Hubert Pope.

During the spring semester, the drama group prepared Terence Rattigan's one-act play, Riders to the Sea, for the Immaculate Heart College drama festival. In April, the brogue and Irish humor of Peg O'Connell captivated all hearts, as the Mount presented Peg O' My Heart under the direction of Frank Hanley. At the close of the year, Mount thespians cooperated with the music department to present the first annual opera work-shop on campus.

Stars of Riders to the Sea are Carl Gabler, Elana Haidinger, Ernestine Barton, Marie Barry, and Maureen Nally.

Greeting "Peg," played by Eunice Smuske, on her arrival from America, are Ernestine Barton, Becky Bohanon, and Frank Carmody.

Principals of Peg O' My Heart are Bill Scott, Linda Marxer, Frank Carmody, Eunice Smuske, Bill Beifuss, Tom Ater, and Ernestine Barton.

VIEW

Jill Curtis, Bobby Walsh, Gretchen Von der Ahe, Sally Snow, Mary Joan Storm, Claire Jones, and Joan Carey choose decorations for the View Birthday Party on April 25.

Scribes

The Press Club, or Scribes, was organized by members of the View staff to further Catholic journalism and to increase student interest in that field. This year the main function of the Scribes was sponsoring the "View Birthday Party," an annual fund-raising stag dance at which notables entertained, along with local talent from the Mount and Loyola. Proceeds from the "View Birthday Party" went towards financing the college paper, The View. This year's celebration held on April 25 marked the ninth birthday for The View.

Another annual event for the Scribes was the Spring brunch, given for advisors and moderators of The View, and the follownig year's officers were elected at that time.

Various activities of the Scribes have included running a booth at "Night at the Mount," contributing to the Red Cross Drive, and helping publicize the Fall production of The Great World Theater.

Parnassians

Parnassian members Shirley Burke, Jean Walsh, Dorothy Roberts, Charlotte Siegel, Eileen Kline, Dorothy Smith, Gloria Francis, Anne Frances Russell, Mary Evelyn Meichelbock, and Joey Rennison gather for an informal discussion.

Reading the latest in the Newman seminar are Grace Presto, Diane D'Alfonso, Barbara Woods, Rosemary Johnson, and Susan McDonough.

The Parnassians, the English club at Mount Saint Mary's, was organized in 1934 to interest students in good literature and creative writing. The year started with a reorganization meeting to plan a new club constitution. During October the members saw Christopher Fry's Ring Round the Moon at the Pasadena Playhouse. In December they enjoyed a social hour, featuring color movies on English and French literature, discussion, and refreshments.

Later in the year, Parnassians operated a successful fish pond at Night at the Mount. They attended a dramatic monologue of Richard III and participated in the communication arts panel at the NFCCS Regional Congress at Loyola. En masse, they attended New Moon produced by Loyola's Del Rey players. Guided by Sister Marie de Lourdes, Parnassians have come far toward the fulfillment of their aims.

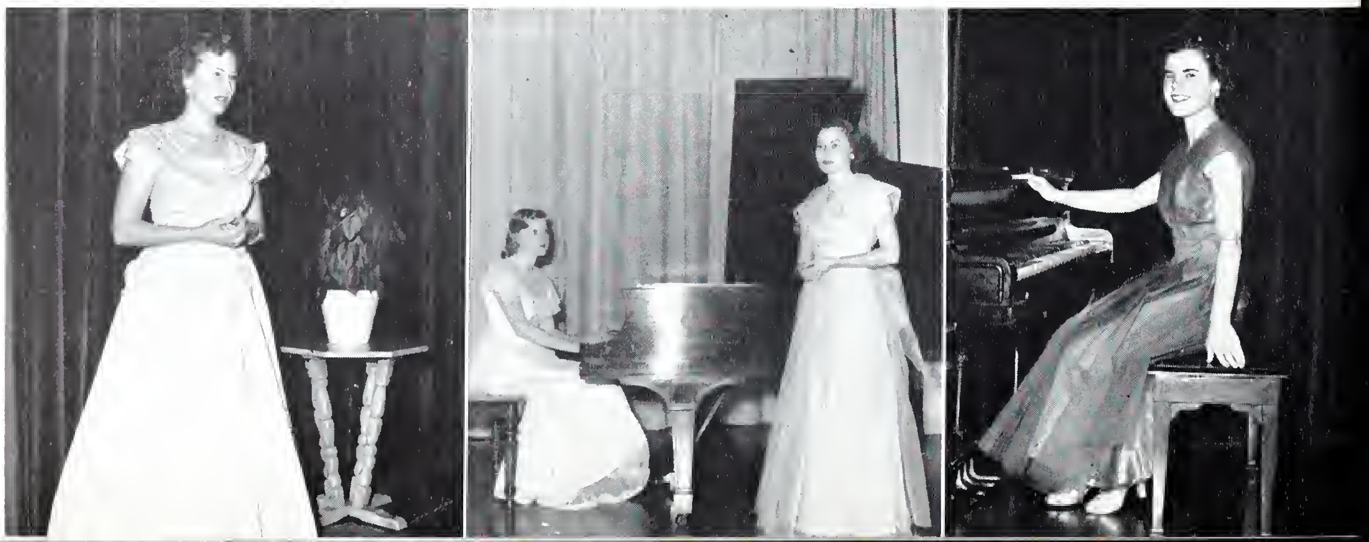
Music Club

Members of the Music Club gather around the piano for a moment of harmony. They are (standing) Jean Johnston, Rosemary Lucente, Celeste Gourdeau, Lucy Cohen, Bernie Victorino, Helen Pawling, Elaine Pfiffner, Toni DeBellis, and Winnifred Shutt; (seated) Gloria Day, Gretl Dietzel, Gretchen Von der Ahe, and Velma Salmen.

Under the patronage of Saint Cecilia, the aim of the Music Club toward an interest and love for music, was fully promoted this year. An introductory tea acquainted all musically-minded students with the purposes of the organization, and throughout the year delightful teas were enjoyed at the homes of the members. The choral group and the string ensemble played a large part in the success of the Great World Theater and Peg O' My Heart. They presented programs and recitals both on and off campus. The Music Club attended the Friday night concerts at the Los Angeles Philharmonic Auditorium, the new operas of the season, and the recitals given by senior members. Other worthwhile projects included a fund-raising campaign for a needy mother and her child, and a booth at Night at the Mount.

In all that they did the Music Club strove to fulfill the words of David's psalm, "Cantate Domino canticum novum."

SENIOR RECITALS are always an outstanding event. This year they were given by Velma Salmen, Gretl Dietzel and Gloria Day, Pat Harman, and (far right) Beverly Czar.



Practicing for the High School Senior Tea is the String Ensemble: (standing) Bernie Victorino, Gretl Dietzel, Toni DeBellis, Gloryann Audia, Celeste Gourdeau, and Jean Neal; (seated) Velma Salmen and Pat Sanders.

Mary Milligan, Jean Johnston, Nancy BuMiller, Jo-Ann Schuller (standing), Pat Sanders, and Molly Swope practice in Room Seven.

"Schola practice, F 18," is a nightly occurrence. Barbara Selna (at the piano) leads Vivian Laubach, Kay Knauf, Marie Barry, Mary Ackerman, Joanne Schott, Justine Weiher, Ann Bondan, Lucy Cohen, Milania Austin, Eileen O'Loughlin, Mary Joan Storm, and Gloryann Audia.

The International Language Club

The International Language Club was organized to stimulate interest in foreign languages and culture.

A "Night Around the World" dance held in the Mount ballroom highlighted the year. Foreign dinners were enjoyed each semester. Other activities included the trip to Padua Hills for the Christmas miracle play, Las Posadas, and travelogues which presented the culture of France, Spain, and Italy. Several guest speakers gave interesting and instructive accounts of Europe.

Many members of the International Language Club were honored by Alpha Mu Gamma, national honor society for students of modern foreign languages. At a candlelight ceremony held in March, the society received several faculty members as honorary members. Twelve students became charter members for their work in Spanish, French, German, and Italian.

The International Language Club and Alpha Mu Gamma plan close cooperation in the future toward their mutual goal of furthering understanding and appreciation among all peoples of the world.

Enjoying "Night Around the World" are ILC members and their dates: Callie Orfanos, Alicia Wick, Jeannette Gualano, E'Lane McCaffrey, and Mary Virginia Doyle.

Eusebians

Under the patronage of Saint Eusebius, the Mount's history club interests itself in historical, political, and international problems. The Eusebians began the year with a tea for its new members and entertainment in the form of a Scotch ballad, a Spanish dance, and several European folk songs. In December, members gave a Christmas party for needy children of Saint Peter's parish.

Later in the year, Eusebians saw a moving picture on California history. They added a dart booth to the festivities of Night at the Mount. During Easter vacation, they gave another party for needy children, and in April the club participated in a panel on current affairs at the NFCCS regional congress. The final meeting, with election and installation of new officers, looked forward to an equally active and fruitful program for the coming year.

Home Economics Club

The aims of the Home Economics Club are to create an understanding of Christian living in community and family life, and to stimulate action toward this goal among students at Mount Saint Mary's. One of the most active and prestige-winning clubs on campus, their year started with an initiation tea for new members. Two members were elected to offices in the college club section of the American Home Economics Association. At Christmas members dressed dolls for underprivileged children and served as hostesses for the sixteenth province of AHEA. They attended meetings of home economics groups at Los Angeles and in Santa Barbara. During Family Week they gave a mother-baby party, with alumnae mothers and their children as guests. In May they highlighted a busy year with the seventh annual fashion show and tea, in which students modeled the fashions they had made themselves. Thus the members created specific and fruitful programs to put into very real practice their club aims.

Working in the sewing lab are Helen McEachen, Joyce Markel, Eileen Hainley, Rosemary Czuleger, and Anne Park.

Rosemary Czuleger (second from right) shows the millinery display to guests at the winter workshop of Province XVI of the College Club Department of the AHEA.

SWES activities were as varied as the members of the club. A pre-school spaghetti dinner at the president's home in Glendale started the year. Shortly after studies began, a welcome tea drew the club together in a more formal setting. UN Week gave students a chance to hear Sister Hortensia's first-hand impressions of the General Assembly; later in the year a group participated in the Model UN at Berkeley. Members enjoyed parties at Halloween, Christmas, and Easter for the settlement at Pacoima. Intercultural Week brought lectures, movies, and the De Porres Post. Catholic married couples who spoke during Family Week inspired everyone to work for the restoration of Christian family life. SWES alumnae answered questions at the April reunion. An installation banquet closed a busy and fruitful SWES year.

Tri Rho

Tri Rho, which denotes the three R's of education, has as its aims the furthering of Catholic ideals in education and developing informed minds and professional attitudes. Active in the California Student Teachers Association, members attended workshops held at the University of Southern California and Los Angeles State College and a leadership training conference at Asilomar. Holding a seat on the Executive Council, Tri Rho took part in meetings in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The year's activities included a tea to introduce new members to Tri Rho, a dinner given by student teachers for their training teachers, the Dutch auction for Night at the Mount, a tea for graduates of the education department, and participation in the education panel of the NFCCS regional congress. A prominent guest speaker this year was Mrs. Healy, music supervisor in the Los Angeles secondary schools. Sister Mary Hortensia is moderator of the club.

Kathleen Higgins

Regional Vice-president

The National Federation of Catholic College Students, uniting two hundred thousand American students, aims to foster student leadership and interest in co-curricular activities.

The first such activity was the Marian Congress, held in October to present artistic and factual information about the Blessed Mother. During the year, Marian study clubs met weekly for similar discussion. In the Spring, the first annual inter-college communion mass and breakfast was held for the Los Angeles region, which is composed of the four local Catholic colleges.

On the international side, the Federation sponsored a student exchange, at which foreign students from several colleges exchanged views and enjoyed a distinguished guest speaker. NF also cooperated with SWES in the Mount's annual UN week.

In April a regional congress was held at Loyola University, where students participated in discussion of topics pertinent to various fields of study. The plenary sessions dealt with the intellectual apostolate; a dinner and dance rounded out a valuable and enjoyable day.

NSA

The United States National Student Association is an organization of college student bodies, represented through their student government and designed to promote the interests and welfare of the American student community.

Activities of the campus committee, a standing committee of the student government, began with the direction of the club orientation of freshmen, which was in the form of a campus-bazaar. NSA co-sponsored United Nations Week, a highlight of which was an NSA panel on the general structure, purposes, and achievements of the UN. Members of this committee compiled and sent to other schools a seven-page bibliography on academic freedom. NSA publicized on campus the student discount service and has promoted student use of it. European Student Tours have been brought to the attention of the student body. A regional assembly was held in March on this campus. With delegates from all over California attending, regional elections were held. The regional officer from the Mount was re-elected treasurer. This committee studied the preferential voting system and presented it to the student body to use in subsquent elections and also arranged the campus leadership conference.

Discussing plans for the leadership conference are Diane D'Alfonso, co-ordinator, and committee members Nancy Van Dyke, Pat Smith, Connie Markel, Eunice Smuske, Joan Schneider, Carla Wright, Clare Heumphreus, Helen Russell, and Lu Mattson.

Red Cross

Checking pledge cards for the Red Cross Fund Drive are committee members: Eunice Smuske, Dorothea Ross (standing), Barbara Selna, Mary Ackerman (standing), Marilyn Munton, chairman, Doris Ouellet, Val Munton (standing), and Eileen Hainley.

The campus unit of the Red Cross strives to further national aims of the American Red Cross through close cooperation. This year a welcoming tea was held for new members in October. The club hosted thirty foreign students during International Students' Week. At luncheon in the Blue Room, students told of customs and celebrations peculiar to their native lands.

The "Bloodmobile" visited the Mount campus and students and faculty donated sixty-five pints of blood. The March fund drive also received active support. At Christmas, members dressed dolls as presents for underprivileged children and knitted sweaters for hospitalized veterans. Children of a local orphanage enjoyed an Easter party arranged by the campus Red Cross. Officers were elected and installed in May and looked forward to another year of service.

Kappa Theta Mu

Observing one of the specimens in the Zoology lab are Kappa Theta Mu members: (seated) Gloria Will, Joanne Schott, Justine Weiher, Pat Quinn, and Margaret Tripp, president; (standing) Eleanor Leavell, Martha Moltena, Thelma Garcia, Marianne Munch, and Georga Grupe.

Kappa Theta Mu, signifying "God rules the world," is the name of the Science Club, organized to arouse interest in scientific work and to unify various scientific departments, thus increasing the knowledge of each. Those wearing the traditional pins, include majors or minors in the fields of chemistry, bacteriology, biology, physics, mathematics, zoology, nursing, or dietetics.

New members became acquainted with the club and with its congenial moderator, Father James O'Reilly, at a tea held in October. During the year business meetings were balanced by social gatherings at which scientific films were shown. A field trip to Los Angeles County General Hospital, where the members also attended a session of the psychiatric court, climaxed the year's activities. With other clubs Kappa Theta Mu participated in the NFCCS regional congress and in Night at the Mount. The year closed with the election of officers and their installation at the annual banquet.

Kappa Gamma Pi

Eileen Kline, Patricia Murphy, Doris Higgins, Eleanor Leavell, (second row) Patricia Harmon, Maria Martinez, and Lillian Pereyra will graduate with distinction and have been outstanding leaders in extra-curricular activities.

Delta Epsilon Sigma

Outstanding students, with the capacity to make learning effective by applying the principles of Catholic philosophy to the problems of modern society are: Gretl Dietzel, Cho Rohe, Margaret Tripp, Gloria Will, Beverly Czar, Maripat Donohue, Gloria Day and Pat Bollig.

Pi Delta Phi

Members of the Pi Delta Phi, the National French Honor Society, are Gretl Dietzel, Ana Maria Cota, Beverly Czar, Mary Ann Greer, Nancy Herbuveaux, and Shirley Burke.

Chemistry Honor Society

At the installation tea, members of the Chemistry Honor Society crowd around the table. They are Maria Martinez, Peggyann Campbell, Camille Lutfy, Miss Hallie Bundy, guest speaker, Georga Grupe, president, Carla Wright, Carol Atchison, Martha Moltena, Justine Weiher, Joanne Schott, and Eleanor Leavell.

Alpha Mu Gamma

Alpha Mu Gamma, the National Modern Language Honor Society, installs the charter members of the Mount St. Mary's College chapter.

Kappa Delt

Kappa Delta Chi has been active at Mount Saint Mary's since 1930. Its main ideal is the establishment of a true sisterhood among the active members, as well as the alumnae.

The activities of the sorority this year were many. Following the "welcome back" dinner, members planned the annual rush tea, the informal party with its traditional Western theme, and the formal acceptance dinner. Later in the year came the formal presentation of pledges, the Christmas party, a closed week-end, and the formal initiation of new members.

Chi Sorority

Other social affairs were hayrides, fraternity exchanges, beach parties, and week-ends out of town.

As an organization of young Catholic women, Kappa Delta Chi attended Holy Mass and received Communion in a body on several occasions. They did volunteer work for the Red Cross and prepared Christmas boxes for underprivileged children in Pacoima. Thus working, praying, and having fun together gave Kappa Delta Chi a fruitful and enjoyable year.

Formal presentation of Kappa pledges (first row) Carol Clark, Lorraine Gibbons, Beverly Calhoun, Julianne Murphy, Audria Gregg, (second row) Mary Lou Smith, Mary Ann Wightman, Faith Larkin and Aggie Osterkamp, took place in the Garden Room of the Bel Air Hotel.

Kathy McGlincy, Clare Goss, Betty Atwill, Betty Troncy and (standing) Rosemary Heffron, Mary Ann O'Connell, Peggi Parkinson, Jeanne Lautier and Nancy Herbuveaux relax during "Hell-week-end" at Laguna Beach.

Tau Alpha

TAZ officers for the first semester were (first row) Pat Carroll, treasurer; Ann Scott, vice-president; (center) Mary Reimann, social secretary; Lavelle Rotsler, president; Bella Jacobs, recording secretary; and (standing) Marcia Williams, pledge mistress.

Genny Castellanos strums her uke while Peggyann Campbell, Robin Boldenweck, Lavelle Rotsler, Doris Higgins and Isabel Gowen harmonize.

Margaret Munnemann, Dorothea Ross, Barbara Cabot, Joyce Markel, and Jan Calderon gather toys for the orphanage parties.

Zeta Sorority

Tau Alpha Zeta has been an active sorority since 1929, fostering leadership and friendship among its members and alumnae. Rushing season was one of the busiest times during the year. The first activity was the formal rush tea, which was followed by an informal party; both were held at the homes of active members. At the end of rushing, there was a formal preference dinner at the Fox and Hounds Restaurant when pledging actually began. During December the presentation of pledges was held at the Del Mar Beach Club.

Other activities during the year included a trip to Balboa during Easter vacation and a tea for the alumnae. On Mother's Day, active members and alumnae joined their mothers in receiving Holy Communion, and treated them to a delicious breakfast. This year the chief charity project of Tau Alpha Zeta was support of the Little Flower Orphanage, and parties and outings for the orphans.

Gamma Sigma Phi

Gamma officers for the year are Mary Virginia Doyle, secretary; Jane Brander, treasurer; Diane D'Alfonso, president; and Bobbie Scherrer, vice-president.

Rushing activities opened the Fall semester for Gamma Sigma Phi. These included a formal tea, an informal dinner, "Un Notte in Italia" under the stars and complete with Italian authenticity, and a preference dinner at the Red Coach Inn. In December, activities consisted of a joint Christmas party with the Eusebians for the children of St. Peter's parish.

The end of the semester found everyone enjoying the formal presentation of pledges at the Gold Room of the Ambassador Hotel. Spring brought "open bid" rushing and a preference dinner at Sarnez's Restaurant. A buffet dinner in April for the parents opened a scholarship fund. In May, seniors were treated at a dinner. Weekends in Santa Barbara and Balboa, pot luck dinners, group attendance at Mary's Hour followed by a picnic, and exchanges with fraternities at Loyola and U.S.C. made this year a full and active one for Gamma members.

First semester pledges: (standing) Regina Knapp, Kathleen Ford, Clare Heumphreus, Kathleen Murphy; and (seated) Jackie Picard and Val Munton are formally presented at the Ambassador Hotel.

Sorority

At the informal rush party, "Un Notte in Italia," actives Dorothy Smith and Mary Alice Zalesny serve rushees Kathleen Murphy and Val Munton.

The View

The View, bi-monthly student newspaper, enjoyed a year of improvement and excitement. The first issue introduced a new format which climaxed in the Christmas issue printed in green ink.

In subject matter, the View's year can best be described as controversial. In February, "The Crow's Nest", a news column treated with the lighter touch, emerged full of satire, ambiguous initials, and copious references to modern and classical literature. Student reaction to its satire was heated, and the column was applauded as vigorously as it was denounced, weeks after publication. In March, an editorial against roll call in student body meetings excited similar interest, and a meeting was devoted to discussion of the subject. In April the Mount celebrated the View's ninth birthday with the annual View Birthday Party. The freshman edition in April promised continuing journalistic progress and interest.

Problems of reaching a last minute deadline are met by (seated) Shirley Burke, Jill Curtis, Mary Joan Storm, Miriam Kam, (standing) Joan Carey, Sally Snow, Claire Jones, Jo Davis.

The Mount Handbook

Shirley Burke edited The Mount Handbook for 1952-1953 with Joanne Schott (right). The handbook, so vital to the incoming freshmen, is of great service to upper classes as well, with its calendar of activities, descriptions of campus clubs and organizations, and regulations for student discipline and boarder life. The handbook is a main-stay of school spirit, for it contains the school song, traditional prayers, and the constitution of the Associated Students of Mount Saint Mary's College.

Inter Nos

Inter Nos, the literary publication of Mount Saint Mary's, this year contained the work of (first row) Diane D'Alfonso, Lillian Pereyra, Milania Austin, Shirley Burke, (top row) Mary Jo Rennison, Jean Walsh, Mary Joan Storm, Barbara Selna, and Justine Weiher. Sister Mary Dolorosa, editor of the quarterly, contributes a delightful and informative preface to each issue. Outstanding selections reprinted during 1952-1953 school year were the "top" and "merit" papers in the national Atlantic Monthly essay and short story contest.
